Newsletter No 11

Friday 23rd April 2010

Spring is in the air! Our daffodils are finished, but we have been enjoying giant tulips. With some wonder from all of us we have measured them each day, and found that just in their giant vase of water they have grown 16cm in five days.

“How big will they grow? “

We are very pleased to welcome Ishan Joshi to our school. I will be sending out a new address sheet with the next newsletter, so could you please give me any updates for this.

Readathon – Thank you to those parents who have returned the sponsor cards and monies for this charity. Please can you all complete these and send them back with your child by Monday.

Over the holidays we were grateful to receive a number of useful items such as clocks for the classrooms and cutlery from Liesl Dalton’s sister. We have also set up a fashion shop in our ‘role play’ area. If you have any accessories, t-shirts, or garments you think could be added to this, we would be pleased to receive them.

“How cool am I?”

Volcano Impact

We have felt very bereft without some of our children this week and look forward to their return. We decided to build on the children's enthusiasm for the big news item, and spent a happy afternoon learning about volcanoes, and related vocabulary. The afternoon finished with a full reconstruction of an exploding volcano. (Vinegar and Bicarbonate of soda in a corked bottle – beware, it does explode with quite an impact!)

Open Events – As current parents will receive a full written report at the end of term, there will not be any parents meetings this term; however you are of course welcome at any time to make an appointment to discuss your child's learning with Mrs Dalton or me.
