

Head of Faraday School appointed

The governors of the New Model School Company are delighted to report that Mrs Sarah Counter has been appointed Head of Faraday School, opening this September.

Mrs Counter comes to us with a wealth of experience from across the education sector. A graduate of Trinity College, London, she is currently Head at Milbourne Lodge Junior School, a non-selective independent school in Surrey, where she has been working since 2002 (<http://www.milbournelodge.com>).

Mrs Counter has a track record of pioneering and developing educational systems and has worked with schools and colleges spanning all age-groups. She was Educational Consultant for the establishment of the first Technology Academy in Middlesborough. She is also a qualified Independent Schools Inspectorate (ISI) Team Inspector, with further additional training specialising in Early Years Foundation Stage Inspection. Mrs Counter is a member of the Independent Association of Prep Schools (IAPS) and of the Independent Schools Association (ISA).

Mrs Counter is a founding trustee for the creation of a tertiary college of education in Zambia and is also a trustee of the African Learning Partnership, which supports schools and community agencies in areas of severe disadvantage.

She has a love of music and is a member of several choirs. Mrs Counter is also an active member of her local church.

We are delighted to be able to appoint someone with such outstanding experience and enthusiasm as the founding Head of Faraday School.
